Notification had to be made at least three months prior to taking leave. EM did not have regular yearly leave time alloted to them. The only time an EM was allowed to go on leave was when an emergency arose at his home or when he performed his duties in an exceptionally meritorious manner. On several occasions EM who reported politically unreliable fellow soldiers to their superiors received leaves as a reward for their so-called alertness. In all of the above-mentioned instances the EM concerned never received more than 25 days of leave. At the same time the EM were authorized to go only to their respective homes.
